

Policy and Procedure for the Use of the ACF Certification Designations

I. POLICY PURPOSES AND USES

All ACF logos and designations (hereinafter collectively referred to as the “Designations”) are owned and controlled by the ACF and the Certification Commission. Use of an ACF Designation are granted by the ACF to qualified certificants as described below, who satisfy all applicable certification, application or eligibility requirements. Consistent with applicable law and corporate policies, the ACF must monitor all uses of its Designations to ensure that the Designations are used properly and correctly, as they represent the ACF to the public. The overall purpose of this Policy and Procedure is to provide information, guidelines and requirements to the ACF Certificants, stakeholders and supporters regarding the proper use of the ACF Designations.

The ACF retains all ownership rights to its Designations. The ACF therefore reserves, and may use, the full range of legal remedies and certification-related sanctions available under applicable laws and corporate policies and procedures to protect its Designations. Infringement of any ACF Designation will be challenged. Inappropriate or incorrect uses of any ACF Designation may, therefore, be subject to organizational or legal action for Designation infringement and other claims if such uses are contrary to law or corporate policy, e.g., where a use creates a likelihood of confusion with the proper use of any ACF Designation, without regard to the certification or approved status of the party involved.

Each certificant accepts and assumes all, and the sole, responsibility for understanding and satisfying legal requirements of ACF Designation usage, and any Procedure requirements of ACF Designation usage, including those requirements applying to the use, display and/or advertising of any ACF Designation. It is the responsibility of such certificant to ensure that the use of any ACF Designation on professional and business related materials (e.g., stationary, signs, business cards, flyers, chef coats, yellow page or other advertisements and marketing materials) is NOT in conflict with this Policy and Procedure, or with the laws of the nation, state or territory in which that individual or entity conducts business. The ACF assumes no responsibility concerning the application of such governmental and legal requirements pertaining to the use, display and/or advertising of any ACF Designation.

Use of any ACF Designation is subject to this Policy, and any other applicable resolution or requirement of the ACF Certification Commission.

II. DESIGNATION PROCEDURE

A. Trademarks and Trademark Usage

The marks shown below have been registered in the United States Patent and Trademark Office. The federal registration symbol is (®) or phrase "Registered in U.S. Patent and Trademark Office" may be used in connection with the mark(s). The marks with a (™) are trademarked and may be registered with the U.S. Patent Office at a later time.

The certification mark(s) are used by authorized cooks and chefs given certification who have successfully demonstrated specific skills and knowledge pertaining to specified level of certification. Unauthorized use or misuse of marks are an infringement and may be prosecuted.

When using certification initials, no periods should be included (Example: CEC). A chef's name and certification initials must be uniform in color and font. When spelling out a designation the chef name and designation must be uniform in color and font. The font can be either a script or block style.

When using the marks ® and ™ standard block font should be used and the marks must be uniform in color of the name and/or designation and/or initials. The marks (®) and (™) can be 1/3 the font size and larger, but no larger than the size of the font used for the designation or initials. Mark placement is superscript, slightly above the baseline font. Software programs offer instructions on how to enter trademark symbols into documents.

Examples.

- John J. Joe, CEC®
- John J. Joe, Certified Executive Chef®

Consistent use is advisable in the use of the ® and ™ with designations on letterhead, Websites and signs. The symbol does not have to be used every time the mark is used in text but at least periodically to demonstrate ownership rights to the mark.

G. Violations and Related Actions

The ACF considers misrepresentation of certification status to be a serious matter. Such actions are in direct violation of the ACF Certification Policies that prohibit false representations about certification status.

Following receipt of information that an inappropriate or unauthorized use of Certification Designations may have occurred, ACF, in consultation with legal counsel, will determine if responsive action(s) will be taken. The ACF may take any of the following actions, or other appropriate measures. Certificants are required to cooperate fully in the review and resolution of such matters.

- Notification and/or documentation of the alleged inappropriate or unauthorized Certification Designation will be obtained and reviewed to determine whether a violation of this policy or procedure or resolution of the ACF Certification Commission has occurred;
- Upon confirmation of a policy or other violation, written correspondence will be issued and sent by an authorized ACF representative to the individual(s) involved, explaining, among other matters: the nature of the objectionable or unauthorized use: the relevant ACF policy, procedure or resolution; and the requirement that the individual cease and desist from the objectionable or unauthorized use immediately and in the future;
- Where an individual using the Certification Designation in an objectionable or unauthorized manner fails to respond to, or refuses to comply with, ACF requirements to cease and desist from such use, the ACF Certification Review Panel or other authorized ACF representative may initiate appropriate legal actions and/or disciplinary proceedings, the latter of which are set forth in this policy.

H. Designation Related Disciplinary Measures

Following notice and a fair opportunity to respond, an existing or former certificant acting contrary to the terms of this policy, procedure or resolution may be sanctioned by ACF. Sanctions are outlined in the Certification Commission Policy Document.
